

Riots Due to Plotting, Is GOP View

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — How do Negro riots start? Republican party leaders suggest violence like that in Detroit may result from a conspiracy organized, planned and carried out on a national scale.

But the national government at this moment has no evidence of such a conspiracy, and it has had weeks to check. Nevertheless, Republicans called for a congressional investigation.

They accused President Johnson of failing to deal with the riot problem. But Monday night he sent U.S. troops into Detroit. The riots in one city after another have pretty much followed a pattern. A Negro mob forms to denounce a certain police action. Some times the mob melts. But in other cases it suddenly goes berserk. It becomes, like any violent mob, mindless and plunges into destruction.

But what triggers the mob? Some individual or group of individuals, perhaps shouting something like, "Let's tear the place down." As one government official explained: "There's always a loudmouth to start something."

But what kind of individual would do the triggering? Without question it would be a criminal, either a person with a criminal record or one who is potentially criminal and suddenly found his chance to perform.

Anyone who has had enough dealings with criminals to understand the criminal mind knows a criminal's concern is not a choice between right and wrong but how to get away with what he wants to do.

Nothing provides as much safety as a mob for a man who wants to kill, loot or burn. In the midst of mob action he is practically anonymous, which makes it tough for the police to pin anything on him directly.

But are all the members of a mob criminals? Definitely, those who commit criminal acts are. Earlier this year the President's crime commission in its study of riots said:

"They are a sort of moral license to the compulsively or habitually criminal members of the ghetto community to engage in their criminal activities and to ordinarily law-abiding citizens to gratify such submerged tendencies toward violence and theft as they may have."

New Jersey's Gov. Richard J. Hughes called the Newark riots a "criminal insurrection." And Monday night Detroit's Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh said the wreckage of his city was "an explosion of the completely lawless element."

In a special report to the nation Monday night, Johnson also called the conduct criminal.

And if anyone doubts this all he has to do is remember that some of these riots, which may have been triggered by the action of some individual policeman, went on night after night when the mobs found the police couldn't stop them.

The President's commission acknowledged that riots are complicated and that one way of explaining them is ghetto conditions. It recommended action to eliminate those conditions.

The commission listed racial discrimination, commercial exploitation, economic deprivation, and police misconduct as examples of what participants in earlier riots said they were protesting against.

Yet in the South, where Negroes were kept in an inferior condition longest, there have been no big riots this year. Perhaps those willing to riot there feared the police retaliation in the South would be swift and rigid.

It hardly seems an accident the rioting has been limited to Northern cities where there is division among the whites on police restraint and the concern for Negroes is the greatest. In other words, the North was a softer touch than the South.

At the same time, despite the rioters' expressed hostility toward "Whitey," these Northern riots have not been racial in the sense that white neighborhoods were the first to be invaded and demolished, if at all.

In Newark, for example, the destruction was aimed mainly at the Negro areas, a condition which supports the belief the riots were criminally inspired.

And, further, in Detroit white thieves joined Negro looters without any reports that the Negroes turned on them. They were criminals together.

First Papal Turkey Visit in Centuries

By BENNET M. BOLTON
ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Pope Paul VI flew to Turkey today for the first pontifical visit in more than 12 centuries and a meeting with Patriarch Athenagoras of the Orthodox Church which they hoped would help reunite their faiths.

It was the first papal visit to Turkey since Pope Constantine I was triumphantly welcomed in the city of the Golden Horn in 711.

Pope Paul's two-day visit followed a major earthquake that caused widespread destruction in Anatolia southeast of Istanbul and took a known death toll of 86 and was still rising. The tremors were felt clearly in Istanbul. More shocks were predicted by seismologists.

The tall, slender, 81-year-old patriarch was the special object of Pope Paul's fifth trip out of Italy since he was elected pontiff in 1963.

Government leaders set up two meetings with the Pope, at palaces near the waterway dividing Europe and Asia, before stepping out of the picture for the religious and "private" part of the visit.

The white-bearded patriarch is the spiritual leader of 150 million Orthodox faithful in the world, but his direct authority here extends over fewer than 80,000 Turkish orthodox of Greek descent. The Pope has both spiritual and jurisdictional authority over 500 million Catholics.

Athenagoras in Turkish eyes stands for Greece and the other side of the Cyprus issue.

Pope Paul and Athenagoras launched a serious dialogue in the Christian unity spirit when they met in the Holy Land in 1964 during the Pope's first trip abroad. They embraced and talked twice in two days. The Pope said later that Catholic-Orthodox links should never have been broken.

Since then both sides have moved closer, overcoming initial suspicion and reluctance within the Greek part of Orthodoxy.

The two church leaders set as the major topic for their Istanbul meeting the question of how to set up an expert study of theological and church law matters that divide the Orthodox and the Catholics. They also agreed to talk about the status of Jerusalem and the holy places which have been in Israeli hands since the Israeli-Arab war in June.

Davis Will Take State Police Post

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Lynn A. Davis of Texarkana said Monday that he plans to take over as director of the State Police Aug. 1.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller named Davis to the $12,000 a year post even though a suit is expected to be filed over whether Davis meets the state's residency requirements.

Davis was an FBI agent at Los Angeles when appointed to the job.

Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell said in a recent opinion that Davis did not meet residency requirements, but Rockefeller said that his lawyers advised him that Davis does qualify.

Mao Regime Is Reported Collapsing

By K. C. THALER
LONDON (UPI) — The regime of Mao Tse-tung in Peking was reported today in "very serious trouble" and in danger of outright collapse.

Diplomatic reports said the authority of the central government was fading fast, threatening the country with relapse into war-lord rule and even civil war.

The cultural revolution—a strange and undefinable phenomenon—has gone wrong, and authoritative quarters have warned that the next two months may bring its all-out failure that could mark the collapse of the Mao regime.

The army on whom Mao has relied as the crucial element in his strange battle appears to have let him down. Its intervention has proved markedly cautious and ineffective and latest reports suggested that the army was in effect taking up a virtually neutral attitude.

Sources in Hong Kong today said Red army troops at the birthplace city of the modern Chinese revolution appeared on the brink of full revolt against Mao.

Mao's Peking Radio admitted it is a "serious situation."

Its broadcasts said Mao's supporters at the central China city of Wuhan are defending their leader in the national power struggle "at the cost of their lives and blood."

Military intelligence analysts at this Western listening post said the main military faction there is led by the district Red army commander, Gen. Chen Tsai-tao. Chen was reported strongly resisting the party-government-military purge Mao is waging.

Mao has the support of the indoctrinated masses, but his opponents in power positions appear to have been gaining steadily in strength or, as one report put it, in determination to make a firm stand against the Mao rule.

Baby Killed in Family Driveway

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP)—Alvira Anita Heard, 11-month-old daughter of Mrs. Ester Lee Heard of Camden, was killed Monday when she was struck by a car in the driveway of her home.

Officers quoted witnesses as saying the child's uncle, Walter Lee Brown, 19, was backing from the driveway when a rear wheel rolled over the baby.

The infant died about two hours after the accident while en route to a Little Rock hospital.

Detroit Paratroopers Are Schooled in Job of Handling Mobs

By BOB HORTON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Army paratroopers sent into turmoil-torn Detroit have been versed in riot control tactics ranging from bayonet use to mob psychology to marching through crowds.

Depending on the type of unit he is in, an American soldier gets as much as 24 hours of individual and unit training in riot control or related activities. Civil disobedience training is included in each year's training.

Pentagon spokesmen say instruction stresses the use of adequate force—but no more—to put down a disturbance.

Elements of the 82nd and 101st Airborne divisions, 4,700 strong—were sent to Michigan by President Johnson upon request from Gov. George Romney. Some of the troops were ordered into Detroit late Monday night.

"Having been with an airborne unit," one officer says, "it would be my judgment that they will be firm, be polite and say it with a smile—but they will not say it twice."

This may mean jabbing a rioter with a bayonet to move him on.

It may mean smacking him with a rifle butt if the man grabs at the weapon.

In extreme danger it may mean shooting snipers or other belligerents at the order of an officer in charge.

"We don't shoot just because something moves or because somebody runs," an officer claimed.

At the same time, he adds "we take no guff off anybody."

Riot control training begins

Best Exercise Is to Count Your Blessings So Says Hal Boyle

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The best exercise a man can take is to count his blessings.

Unlike counting calories, it doesn't reduce one's weight. But it's hard to think of a better way to cure the blues.

Being the contrary creature that he is, man is now and then overwhelmed by a nameless melancholy for which he finds it hard to find a reason. He's just in the dumps, and that is it.

As the old saying goes, "Some people can find something to cry about even when they have both arms full of bread."

At such times it can help to shake off the doldrums and revive the spirit simply to sit down and list the things that do put a zing in living.

For example:

The courtships of pigeons, which are even more pompous than the courtships of people.

The easygoing singing of Andy Williams.

Being told by the doctor, "There's nothing wrong with you that a little common sense living won't cure."

Giving as a tip to the taxicab driver a quarter that the passenger before you dropped on the floor. It leaves you feeling like a philanthropist.

Sitting on a country fence and watching the stars bloom like fireflies in the sky.

The clean, sweet smell of newly ironed bedsheets and pajamas after a long, trying day.

The joy of coming home to someone you'd hate ever to be without.

Discovering your tomato plants escaped the cutworms that have wrecked every neighbor's garden.

Awarding a 50-cent prize to the small lad at a picnic who can spit a watermelon seed the farthest.

All the wonderful taste boons of summer—blueberries and strawberries, milk-white corn on the cob, the golden flesh of cantaloupes, and the innocent refreshment of glass after tall glass of tangy ice tea.

The startlement of plunging deep into a cold lake.

Hunting for four-leaf clovers with a young lady while she chatters on about how glad she is that she weathered kindergarten and how fearful she is of the perils that await her in the first grade.

Seeing the prideful patriotism in the eyes of middle-aged veterans carrying a flag in a parade.

Finding out that those little insects on your back porch aren't termites after all.

Opening your pay envelope and discovering a little more there, proving that the boss is still aware that you're in the land of the living.

The memory of unexpected favors from strangers, which remind us that most men basically still yearn to show kindness to one another.

How can anyone feel low if he itemizes his blessings? One, two, three, four—the list is endless, but don't turn the job over to a computer. Do it yourself. Nothing enlarges the pasture of a man's soul more than to count the blessings he has—and wonder how many of them he truly deserves.

4-Year Term for Governor Is Suggested

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP)—Mrs. Shirley McFarlin, a member of the Arkansas Constitutional Revision Study Commission, said at a public meeting here Monday night that the Executive Branch Committee will recommend a four-year term for governor.

She said the recommendation would be with "perhaps a limitation on the number of terms he may serve."

Mrs. McFarlin, president of the Arkansas League of Women Voters, was one of three commission members who discussed the commission's work at the public meeting sponsored by the league.

Mrs. McFarlin, who is a member of the Executive Branch Committee, said the committee probably would suggest a reduction in the number of constitutional officers, consider the role of lieutenant governor, and recommend that an "extraordinary vote be required to override the gubernatorial veto."

"We have a weak executive office and we do not have the separation of executive, legislative and judicial powers that we consider desirable in order to have a government which is both responsible and responsive to the people," she said.

She said that the committee was studying the office of lieutenant governor and that if it found that the office was needed it probably would recommend that he run on the same ticket with the governor.

The full commission will consider the reports of its six committees when it meets early next month. The committees already have reported that general revision is needed in the state's 1874 Constitution.

Walter Nunn, senior research assistant, called for public involvement in the revision process.

"Even if our commission writes a proposed revision of the Constitution, it will only be a guideline for the (constitutional) convention, not a document to be rubber stamped," he said.

"The Legislative Branch Committee would like to see some of the 18th Century restrictions removed so that the legislature will have sufficient freedom to operate independently of the Executive and Judicial Branches," Nunn said.

Miss Kay Collett of Fayetteville, a research assistant for the commission, said the Constitution was unduly restrictive on local government.

She said the 1874 Constitution "has often been characterized as a document of 'thou shalt nots.'"

She said that the Local Government Committee has found that the three major problems in regard to local government are lack of flexibility of structural organization in county government, severely limited taxing powers of the cities and lack of home rule powers of cities.

Arkansas is to Attempt Extradition

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Pulaski County Prosecutor Richard Adkisson said Monday that he planned to initiate extradition proceedings today against Ronald Smith who is in jail at Dothan under $500,000 bond.

Smith is charged in Arkansas with burglary and Adkisson said a trial date was set for Sept. 26. Smith is charged with burglarizing the M. M. Cohn Co., of Little Rock, where about $20,000 was taken in cash and merchandise in 1962.

Meanwhile, Alabama Parole Board Chairman W. H. Swearingen changed his mind Monday and decided against any immediate action to return Smith to prison as a delinquent parolee.

Swearingen said he and the other two board members agreed to wait until disposition of a perjury charge on which Smith was arrested as he left Kilby Prison on parole a week ago.

Cong Power Plant Hit by Bombers

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes and bombing naval vessels delivered a coordinated knockout blow to the big power plant just outside the major North Vietnamese city of Vinh, the U.S. Command said today.

It was the first combined Air-Navy strike at a major North Vietnamese target.

A rash of terrorist incidents were reported in South Vietnam, including Communist efforts to stop traffic on the major Mekong Delta highway and a guerrilla raid on a small hamlet where five men and a woman were shot down as "police spies."

While no major ground battles were reported, there were sharp fights up and down South Vietnam, with 49 Viet Cong killed in one series of running fights in the northernmost 1st Corps area where most recent ground fighting has centered.

The Vinh power plant was attacked Monday. The heavy cruiser St. Paul steamed close inshore and opened up with her 8-inch guns while two destroyers darted even closer to shell Red shore batteries.

After an hour-long bombardment, waves of jets from the carrier Constellation swept over the plant, unloading 500- and 700-pound bombs.

It was the second consecutive day that planes had hit the Ben Thuy plant two miles southeast of Vinh and about seven miles inland from the Tonkin Gulf. The plant, originally rated at about 8,000 kilowatts, had been bombed out of operation a year ago but the North Vietnamese restored some of its capacity.

After the two-day pounding, the plant again is presumably out of operation, the U.S. Command said, but precise damage assessment was impossible because of the clouds of smoke, flame and dust raised by the bombardment and bombing.

The air strikes were among 144 missions flown against North Vietnam Monday by Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots. U.S. headquarters reported all strikes were against supply routes and facilities in the lower half of the country because clouds blanketed the area from Hanoi to the Chinese border.

Although ground action was scattered and comparatively light, the U.S. Command reported 38 major search-and-destroy sweeps are being conducted by allied troops.

DeGaulle's Talk Angers Canadians

By STEPHENS BROENING
MONTREAL (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle touched off a storm of protest across Canada today with a speech climaxed by an outburst of support for the French-Canadian separatist movement in Quebec Province.

The French president's speech made before wildly cheering separatists in Montreal Monday provoked a flood of angry telegrams and scores of irate telephone calls to radio stations. Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson was reported profoundly concerned.

The climax came when De Gaulle shouted the separatist slogan "Vive le Quebec libre!" — "Long live free Quebec!" — from the balcony of Montreal's City Hall to thousands in the square below. The slogan is a rallying cry to French Canadians who claim Quebec should secede from the English-speaking rest of Canada.

Pearson watched the 76-year-old French president on television in Ottawa and asked for a transcript of his speech.

A government spokesman said he knew of no changes in plans for De Gaulle's visit to the Canadian capital Wednesday.

De Gaulle's Quebec comments were termed "an inexcusable intrusion in Canada's domestic affairs" by opposition leader John Diefenbaker.

The wedding of Miss Martha Sue McCorkle and George Dale McGough was solemnized Sunday afternoon, July 16th, at three o'clock in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church, Magnolia, Ark. The Reverend Jimmy Henry officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Hunter McCorkle, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Odie McGough, all of Magnolia. The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Zona Green of Mineral Springs, Ark. The groom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George Barnett of Magnolia and Mrs. J. C. McGough of McNeil, Ark.

Prior to the wedding ceremony, Miss Maretha Ann Gathright of Magnolia, presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied Mr. Jim Courtney of Magnolia, who sang "Always" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mr. Courtney also sang "Walk Hand In Hand" as the couple presented red roses to their mother's and then left the sanctuary at the end of the ceremony.

The altar of the sanctuary was beautifully decorated with a Rosa, Calif., and with Misses May and Ella Watkins in Dallas.

Major James Fuller Russell, Shannon and Gavin, Washington, D.C., are visiting Mrs. Lois Russell. When Major Russell returns to Washington in a week, his children will remain for a longer visit.

Mrs. Aubrey Collier, Jr., Mrs. Roger McClellan and Mrs. Dennis Crafton and Donna, Ft. Bragg, N.C., visited relatives in Ft. Worth last week. The Craftons returned to Carolina on Monday.

ery. The family pews were marked with burning tapers inside crystal lanterns. Each lantern stand had greenery fastened with mist green ribbon on it. Completing the setting was the white open Bible, before which the couple exchanged their bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown fashioned of silk crepe and Belgum lace. The empire bodice featured a sabrina neckline and kabuki sleeves detailed in deep lace scallops. The deep inverted pleats in the skirt formed a graceful A-line and was accented at the waist with a small fabric bow. The train of crepe was outlined in a deep panel of Belgum lace-terminating in a handsome chapel train. Her chapel length bridal veil of silk illusion fell in misty softness from a headpiece fashioned of Belgum lace and organza in the form of a large single rose surrounded by smaller roses.

The bride wore the traditional something old, new, blue and borrowed. She carried a cascade of white roses centered with a specimen gold-throated orchid. Her only jewelry was a diamond pendant necklace, a gift from the groom.

Mrs. Stanley Scott Langley, sister of the bride, from Shreveport, La., served her sister as matron of honor. She wore a floor length gown of summer mist green organza styled with a scooped neckline and empire waistline with an A-line skirt. Accenting the dress was the flared bell sleeves. Her headpiece was also fashioned of mist green organza in the form of a large single rose surrounded by smaller roses.

Miss Linda Linkous, of Stephens, Ark., and Miss Martha Ann George of Little Rock, Ark., served as bridesmaids. They wore gowns and hats identical to that of the matron of honor. The bridesmaids carried yellow roses and ivy fastened with yellow velvet ribbon.

Little Misses Judy and Debbie Sanders, cousins of the bride from Lindale, Texas, served as junior bridesmaids. They were dressed identical in floor length dresses of summer mist green organza. Their dresses were also fashioned with bell sleeves and empire waists. They carried small white flower baskets with yellow roses and greenery in them.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, the parents of the bride were hosts at a reception held in the church primary and junior departments. Guests were received by the parents of the honored couple, the bride and groom, and members of the wedding party.

Guests were invited to the bride's table, which was covered with a white satin and net floor length cloth. The cloth was caught up at the corners with bows of bridal satin and yellow daisies and greenery. Centering the table was a silver candelabra holding green tapers, carnations, daisies, poms and greenery. At one end of the table was the three-tiered wedding cake. At the other end of the table were the silver punch bowl and silver compotes of mints and salted nuts.

Those serving at the reception were Miss Becky Sanders, cousin of the bride from Lindale, Texas, Mrs. Roy McCorkle of Little Rock, Ark., Miss Dianne Formby and Mrs. Gladney Sumner, both of Magnolia, Ark. Miss Ann Samuel, of Magnolia, resided at the guest book. Placed beside the guest book was the burning memory candle with a small inset bride and groom.

For travel the bride chose a summer green silk linen suit. She wore matching accessories. At her shoulder she pinned the orchid from her bridal bouquet. After a wedding trip, the couple will be at home at 211 Oakland Street, Magnolia.

Mr. and Mrs. Odie McGough were hosts to a rehearsal party on Saturday evening, July 15th, following the wedding rehearsal. The rehearsal party was held in the dining room of the Town House Restaurant. Members of the wedding party and the families of the bride and groom attended. The couple chose this time to present their gifts to the attendants.

Cubs Whip Cards, Tie for Lead

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ray Culp has parlayed a change of scenery and a change of pace into a change of direction... for himself and the non-stop Chicago Cubs.

Culp, the former Philadelphia fireballer who learned to pull the string on his fastball while sitting at Leo Durocher's elbow, pitched the Cubs back into a share of the National League lead Monday night with a five-hit 3-1 victory over St. Louis.

The victory, ninth for the Cubs in their last 11 games, pulled them even with the Cardinals going into tonight's second game of a three-game summit series at St. Louis.

Houston nipped Philadelphia 2-1 in 11 innings behind the two-hit pitching of Mike Cuellar and Los Angeles shaded Pittsburgh 4-3 in Monday's only other major league action.

Culp, who won seven games for the Phillies last season, squared his 1967 record at 8-8 by pitching out of a sixth-inning jam, sweating out a 51-minute rain delay and then knocking off the last nine Cardinals he faced.

Working under a steady downpour in the sixth with a 3-0 lead, he was clipped for a run when Lou Brock singled, took second on a fly to center and scored on a double by Orlando Cepeda.

After an intentional walk to Roger Maris, Culp struck out Tim McCarver on a change-up, and got Mike Shannon to fly out, ending the Cards' only serious threat.

The Cubs broke in front against St. Louis starter Larry Jaster in the second inning when Ron Santo singled, Ernie Banks doubled home a run and, after a walk and Clarence Jones' infield hit filled the bases, reliever Jack Lamabe walked another run across.

Singles by Glenn Beckert and Billy Williams plus Santo's run-scoring ground out boosted the lead to 3-0 in the fifth.

Cuellar, who struck out 12, including five of the first seven men he faced, gave up a bad-hop double by Cookie Rojas in the fifth inning, then held the Phils hitless until Bill White singled in the 11th.

The Houston southpaw also scored the winning run in the bottom of the 11th, drawing a walk and moving around to third on a sacrifice and an error before Jim Wynn's single broke the 1-1 deadlock.

McGehee Is Babe Ruth Winner

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) — Three McGehee pitchers combined for a no-hitter here Monday night as McGehee grabbed a 6-3 victory over defending champ West Memphis in the state Babe Ruth baseball tournament.

Jackie Reeves, Randy Calhoun and Sid Smith held the defending champs hitless while their teammates collected seven hits and scored six runs, all unearned.

Wayne Duncan was the losing pitcher for West Memphis. In other quarterfinal games Monday, Springdale outslugged Malvern 14-13 and Fort Smith Boys Club whipped North Little Rock Burns Park 5-0.

McGehee will play Springdale at 8:30 p.m. today and Fort Smith will meet Batesville at 6 p.m. in the semifinals.

Tigers Put Out of Town by Rioting

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's spreading riots have surrounded Tiger Stadium and forced the club to play outside the city.

Instead of opening a three-game series with the Baltimore Orioles in Detroit tonight, the Tigers are in Baltimore to play the night game at Memorial Stadium.

The clubs will meet again in Baltimore Thursday night.

The third Baltimore game scheduled for Detroit this week has been re-scheduled as a two-night doubleheader at Tiger Stadium Aug. 11.

Two Tigers-Orioles games scheduled for Baltimore Sept. 12 and 13 will be played in Detroit giving the Tigers a full home schedule.

The postponements came after the city extended a 9 p.m. curfew indefinitely and banned public gatherings of five or more persons.

Not only was baseball affected, but all sports, including horse racing, boxing, auto racing, prize fighting and golf matches were curtailed.

None of the affected facilities was sure when they would reopen.

"We're just going along on a day-to-day basis," was the general outlook.

Dallas Ring Promoters 'Washed Up'

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS (AP) — Whether welterweight champion Curtis Cokes fights in Dallas any time soon, if ever, is open to discussion. But it seems fairly certain that Kenneth Hayles and Tommy Bullock are through with the promotion end of boxing.

After a world's title fight was called off Monday when Gypsy Joe Harris, the unbeaten Philadelphia, failed to show up for the weigh-in and everything collapsed for the Greater Dallas Sports Association, which Hayles and Bullock headed, Bullock declared, "No more of this. We'll try no more."

The projected fight that was once canceled by the State Boxing Commission, then reinstated by a district court judge, had most everybody in a frenzy for a week.

The handwriting started showing on the wall Saturday when Hayles had trouble pinning Harris down on when he would arrive in Dallas. Sunday it went on all day and night with Harris' manager, Willie Reddish, first indicating he would come, changing to maybe, then finally saying he would fly in Monday morning by 11:10 a.m. with his fighter.

But early Monday Hayles said Reddish called him that he couldn't find Harris. But Hayles told him he better since he had a contract to fight here. Reddish said he'd be here.

But at noon, when weigh-in time came, there was no Reddish and no Harris. Cokes was there, though, and he weighed in at 147 pounds—the limit.

But when 2 p.m., CDT, came and there still was no Harris, Hayles said he'd just report the fighter to the World Boxing Association and the Texas Boxing Commission but hadn't decided what other action he might take, such as suing somebody.

A report from Philadelphia quoted Harris as saying he didn't come because he was overweight.

Hayles tried to get some kind of boxing show together because TV Sports Inc. was set up at Memorial Auditorium to televise the 15-round match.

Cokes turned down an offer of $1,000 and 50 per cent of the gate receipts to appear in an exhibition. His manager, Doug Lord, said he wanted $5,000, and he didn't figure the gate receipts would be that much.

It all started when Lord demanded payment of a balance due Cokes in his title defense against Francois Pavilla here May 19.

Hayles said the contract called for $35,000 or 40 per cent of the gross receipts, "that only $23,000 was taken in and that he figured he had already overpaid Cokes when he gave him around $15,000."

Hayles asked for a hearing before the Texas Boxing Commission but there his promoter's license was suspended and the fight canceled because of irregularities in the promotion and failure to pay about $20,000 due Cokes.

The pitcher, but he was too wound up and probably went too far this time," Mathews said.

Milwaukee May Get Spot in American

By DION HENDERSON
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Milwaukee and the American League, like the principals in a mail order marriage, had their first face-to-face meeting Monday night; it was love at first sight, and public announcement of the betrothal may come before the end of the year.

It may come, a reliable source said today, as early as next month, but more likely after the league meetings in October, with Charles O. Finley being given permission to take his Athletics to Oakland, and with new franchises going to Milwaukee and Kansas City.

Awarding of two additional franchises to complete the junior circuit's long-rumored growth to a 12-team league made up of two six-team circuits, still might await the original timetable for a 1968 statement of particulars, with full league play delayed until 1970.

A year ago the air still was thick with recriminations as Milwaukee sought to reclaim its decamping Braves.

But some of the best sources in baseball acknowledged that expansion was being planned, "and planned very carefully, to take a number of things into consideration, including the way baseball has looked lately."

Said one, "The owners are being very careful, and re-searching the prospective expansion cities very thoroughly, not the market potential but the peoples dedication."

Monday night in Milwaukee's County Stadium 51,144 paid to see the Chicago White Sox-Minnesota Twins exhibition. The sponsoring Milwaukee Brewers organization is the same group that already has applied for a new American League franchise.

The Twins edged the White Sox 2-1.

The Brewers are made up of a group of Wisconsin industrialists and businessmen, a number of them millionaires.

Yanks Start Fast at Pan Am Games

By MURRAY ROSE
WINNIPEG (AP) — A quartet of marksmen from the armed forces got the United States off to a roaring start in the fifth Pan-American Games.

Today, the young swimmers and divers, the pride and joy of the Yankee squad, take over the spotlight and the pursuit of an expected golden harvest of medals.

Hershel (Andy) Anderson, a 29-year-old staff sergeant from Columbus, Ga., earned the honor of winning the first gold medal of the games Monday when he captured the free pistols shooting with a score of 548 out of 600.

Then he collected another gold souvenir as a member of the record-breaking foursome that bagged the team crown with 2,171 points, shattering the Pan-American record by one point.

His partners in victory were Arnold Vitarbo, a Bronx, N.Y., native now an Air Force sergeant at San Antonio, Tex., 554; M-Sgt. William Blankenship, Columbus, Ga., 537, and Maj. Franklin Green, of the Air Force at San Antonio, Tex., 532.

While the shooters confined themselves to practice today, the divers and swimmers plunged into action. They may earn the Yanks 30 of the 33 gold medals in the aquatic sports.

The program in the huge, $2.7 million Pan-American pool, showpiece structure of the Winnipeg sports spectacle, include the first three dives in the women's 3-meter springboard competition, and qualifying heats in the women's 200-meter freestyle and men's 100-meter freestyle.

The United States got off to a good start in men's gymnastics and tennis, too, Monday, but it wasn't all wine and roses.

Cuba's defending baseball champions, behind the 14-strikeout pitching of Manuel Alarcon, edged the young Yanks 4-3 despite the 4-for-4 of catcher Steve Sogge of Southern California.

The tournament is on a double round-robin basis.

Then Brazil's female basketballers, second to the U.S.A. four years ago, routed the U.S. girls, 60-42, with a second half spurge in an opening game.

Rain Falls as 3 Enter Hall of Fame

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Drizzling rain marred the ceremonies, but it couldn't dim the thrill for two former baseball stars and for the family of a man whose name is synonymous with the game.

Lloyd "Little Poison" Waner, Red Ruffing and the late Branch Rickey were inducted formally Monday into Baseball's Hall of Fame in a brief outdoor ceremony presided over by Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert.

The rain also interfered with the annual Hall of Fame game, but Baltimore and Cincinnati were able to play eight innings, with Baltimore winning 3-0.

"I've had many, many thrills and some sad moments in my life, but this is the greatest thrill ever," said Waner who averaged .316 from 1927 to 1946 and set a National League record of 223 hits in his rookie season.

"Words cannot express how I feel," added the 5-foot-8 Waner, who with his late brother, Paul, known as Big Poison, formed one of the game's great brother acts while with Pittsburgh in the 1920s and 1930s. He also played with Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Boston and Brooklyn.

The induction was "one of the great moments of my life," said Ruffing, a right-handed pitcher who won 273 major league games from 1924 to 1947 as a member of the Boston Red Sox, New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox.

Rickey's widow, who attended along with 23 other members of the immediate family, including five daughters, did not speak. Nor did Jackie Robinson, the man the late executive and administrator picked to break baseball's color line with Brooklyn in 1947.

Rickey, who died in 1965 at the age of 83, once was a catcher with the old St. Louis Browns and also founded the farm system while with St. Louis.

PR7-4931 GARLAND SMITH

Chiefs Down Broncs in Exhibition

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Little Noland Smith raced 86 yards with a punt return and Frank Pitts grabbed the game-winning touchdown pass from Sandy Stephens as the Kansas City Chiefs downed the Denver Broncos, 21-14, in a rookie-dominated American Football exhibition game Monday night.

Smith, only 5-foot-8 and 163 pounds, ignited the scoring the first time he touched the ball. The former Tennessee State Star grabbed a Denver punt on his own 14, dropped back to the five to set up his blockers, then sped down the sidelines for the Chiefs' first TD.

In the final period, Stephens connected on a 34-yard pass to Aaron Brown, former defensive player getting a trial at fullback, then followed with the winning aerial to Pitts.

While players were hitting each other on practice fields at pro camps throughout the country, three members of the San Diego Chargers of the AFL were hit in the pocketbook.

Fullback Gene Foster, safety Kenny Graham and defensive halfback Les Duncan walked out of camp Monday in a salary dispute, and Coach Sid Gillman fined them $1,000 each.

Gillman called the walkout a "brazen show of irresponsibility" and said he would fine the players an additional $100 a day for each practice session they miss.

In other developments, Timmy Brown, the greatest all-around defensive back in Philadelphia Eagles history, signed his contract, and three other veterans announced their retirement.

Retiring were Pittsburgh tackle Dan James, a nine-year National Football League veteran; Chicago defensive end Ed O'Bradovich, who played five seasons in the NFL, and seven-year NFL veteran Hugh McInnis, Atlanta tight end.

Another veteran, defensive end Earl Faison, a four-time All-AFL selection, was placed on waivers by the Miami Dolphins.

Arms Leak Disturbs U.S. Chiefs

By ROBERT GRAY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense and State departments are concerned that military equipment supplied to some U.S. allies is being resold as surplus hardware to nations engaged in arms races.

Townsend W. Hoopes, deputy assistant secretary of defense for international affairs, told a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee his department is seeking ways to head off future arms transfer.

Jeffrey C. Kitchen, deputy assistant secretary of state for politico-military affairs, reported there will be 7,000 M47 and M48 tanks among the surplus arms in Europe by 1971.

"We are darned concerned about those tanks," he commented.

Kitchen said the anticipated surplus would result from accelerated arms sales to West Germany to offset U.S. expenses in maintaining military forces in Europe.

They testified last March, April and June at a series of hearings by the subcommittee on Near Eastern and South Asian affairs studying arms sales. A heavily censored transcript was released today.

But testimony of three principal witnesses remains classified and none of it appeared in the transcript. They are Lt. Gen. Joseph F. Carroll, director of the Defense Intelligence Agency; Lucius D. Battle, assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern and South Asian affairs, and Battles's deputy, William J. Handley.

Subcommittee Chairman Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said in a statement accompanying the transcript that American arms had found their way into countries never intended to receive them and private firms were making extraordinary profits in the resale of U.S. arms.

"Revisions in laws pertaining to this matter are urgently needed," he said.

The hearings are part of a closer congressional look at the whole issue of U.S. military aid to foreign nations.

Current policies have been criticized on the ground arms supplies have contributed to world tensions.

Ike's 'War Declaration' Is Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Republican leaders could produce a fresh GOP assault on President Johnson's Vietnam war policies.

Eisenhower's suggestion that Congress consider declaring war on North Vietnam got a cold reception from party leaders last week.

But his contention that the war must have priority over domestic programs seems to have solid support among members of the Republican Policy Coordinating Committee.

The coordinating group, made up of congressional leaders, governors and former presidential candidates, meets today but had no specific Vietnam items on its day-long agenda.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, however, forecast a policy pronouncement on defense spending likely to emphasize the threat of a huge deficit if domestic outlays are not reduced.

Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he agrees with Eisenhower that the war should have priority over all other government programs.

"Instead, the Johnson administration has tried to follow a 'guns and butter' fiscal policy which has caused inflation and high interest rates," Miller said.

Disagreeing, Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a separate interview he thinks the war has had priority. But he added that doesn't mean needed domestic programs should be abandoned.

"With a $750 billion national output, I think we can have both guns and butter," he said.

Although Sens. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., thought Congress should look into the effects of a declaration of war, there was strong Republican opposition to any move to thus formalize the conflict.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., said any such declaration might bring Red China and the Soviet Union into the fighting. Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, said it would imply invasion of North Vietnam, which he could not support at this point.

Contract for Helicopters Questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee charges the Army with questionable awarding of a helicopter contract and says the Navy and Air Force should at least temporarily take on the research and development of Army aircraft.

The Armed Services subcommittee mentioned inter-service jealousies, close personal relationships between Army and industry representatives, and lavish entertainment as it attacked awarding of the contract to Hughes Tool Co.

It also said in the report released Sunday after a 10-month probe that Hughes might lose $40 million on the deal.

"Personal feelings and inter-service jealousies played an overriding part in the formative stages of this procurement and directed it on a course which eventually led to the Hughes Tool Co.," said the report from the subcommittee headed by Rep. Porter Hardy Jr., D-Va.

"The existence of close personal relationships between the Army and industry representatives resulted in departures from established procurement procedures and placed the Army in the position of having many of its decisions suspect."

It said the Air Force and Navy should handle research and development of Army aircraft "until the competence of the Army in this area has been firmly established."

The subcommittee said the Army figured Hughes would lose about $10,000 on each of 1,000 helicopters but "it now appears that the loss may eventually reach three to four times this amount before the contract is completed."

When the contract would be completed was another question. The schedule called for 130 of the light observation helicopters to be delivered by last April. Only 39 had been delivered then.

The report said the implications during hearings was that high prices on later sales would erase the Hughes loss. The company denied it would recover its loss in later Army contracts.

GOP Human Resources Unit Expands

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Republican Party's Human Resources Committee, which was created last spring, became a reality Saturday when Odell Pollard of Searcy, chairman of the Arkansas GOP State Committee, announced the appointment of 14 persons to serve on it.

The GOP created the committee in an attempt to determine ways in which to encourage minority group participation in party affairs.

The members of the GOP committee are: Dr. W. H. Hunter of Little Rock, Mrs. Ida Doakes of Little Rock, Mrs. Roberta Jackson of West Memphis, Edmond Lee Jr. of Marianna, Seymour Thomas Jr. of Wheatley (St. Francis County), the Rev. D. C. Clark of Eudora, Mrs. Exia Lockhart of El Dorado, Jesse Rancifer of Pine Bluff, Mrs. Earnestine Knight of Grady, Mrs. Maggie Johnson of Prescott, George Mitchell of Arkadelphia, the Rev. W. K. Hannah of Benton, Mrs. Elizabeth Elder of Marked Tree and the Rev. R. Laird of Weldon (Woodruff County).

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., said any such declaration might bring Red China and the Soviet Union into the fighting. Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, said it would imply invasion of North Vietnam, which he could not support at this point.

Oyster Boat to Be Made Into a House

BOSTON (AP)—A Scituate, Mass., antique dealer has raised a 60-year-old Chesapeake Bay oyster dragger from Boston harbor and plans to make it into a house. Janos Laszlo paid $50 for the right to salvage the vessel, the Bugeye, which sank six months ago.

St. Louis's Arch Open to Public

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A capsule train system was ready today to carry visitors to the top of the Gateway Arch, America's newest and tallest national monument, as it finally was opened to the public.

Persons who bought "first-ride" tickets eight years ago have had to wait through countless delays due to intricate mechanical difficulties. One ticket holder who died before the arch was opened was its designer, Eero Saarinen.

The gleaming 630-foot stainless steel arch has been 32 years in the coming. It cost $25 million. St. Louisans now wonder if the federal government will provide the $6 million needed to landscape the memorial.

Only the eight-car transporter in the north leg of the arch is ready for use. The one in the south leg awaits completion. When that work is done a passenger may ride up one leg and down the other in the self-leveling cars that hold five persons. It takes about four minutes to get to the top. The observation room will hold 140 persons.

The view is superb—30 miles on a clear day.

Hot Export Item Today British Pub

LONDON (AP) — One of the hottest British export items today is a cool old English pub.

"It's surprising," says Ralph Shafran, "but an awful lot of countries are suddenly wanting English pubs, and we are making them and supplying them. We are shipping them complete with barmaids."

With barmaids? "Yes. As we are now exporting an image, part of the British way of life, as you might say, we have agreed to furnish the barmaids as well."

He and his brothers-in-law, operators of the pub factory, have 20 experienced girls ready to export.

"It's a good job for the right girl," Shafran observes. "Fares paid, living paid, and about 15 pounds ($42) a week clear."

This month a pub called the John Bull, made and exported by the Shafran group, opened in Cascais, not far from Lisbon. A pair of English barmaids went down to staff it.

The pub makers also are negotiating with an American company to furnish 200 English pubs worth over $5 million.

If the deal goes through, the pubs will be spotted across the United States.

The company's first job was making and shipping the Bull Dog pub at Canada's Expo 67.

"We number all the parts and send them with do-it-yourself instructions for assembling," Shafran explains.

"This has proved so popular that we now not only supply the structure and the furniture but the appropriate decorations. You know—horse brasses, bugles, hunting horns, sporting prints stuffed fish, swords, suits of armor, even stuffed owls."

The average do-it-yourself pub costs $22,000-$28,000.

Family to Push Search for Hertz

WASHINGTON (AP) — The family of Gustav C. Hertz, a top U.S. official kidnapped by the Viet cong in February 1965, says it will continue its efforts to determine whether Hertz still is alive.

"It's been a long, frustrating effort and, yes, he may be dead. But we are going to continue to do everything we can to free him or find out," promised Hertz's brother, A. Burke Hertz of suburban Falls Church, Va.

A Viet Cong broadcast last month indicated that Hertz had been executed. But Friday night, Burke Hertz got a cablegram from the Viet Cong, saying prisoners are treated well.

Although it did not mention Gustav Hertz, who worked for the Agency for International Development, Burke Hertz surmised the cablegram "meant his brother had not been executed—that he either is alive or had died of starvation or illness in a prison camp."

The State Department was unable to give any indication of Hertz' status. Hertz' family says all efforts so far to obtain his release, including payment of ransom or through a prisoner exchange, have failed.

In another development, some of the college students working in Congress this summer have charged they are being threatened with the loss of jobs because of efforts to express disagreement with the Johnson administration's Vietnam policy.

Five of the 1,300 students in the summer intern program said in a statement Saturday they are "dismayed that a group of responsible students should face recrimination for expressing their views on Vietnam."

The controversy arose last week when Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., told the House some of the student workers were "hatching a scheme to undercut and embarrass the administration."

Michel said about 20 students were trying to get other interns to sign a letter to President Johnson opposing his Vietnam policy and urging him to de-escalate the war.

The five interns said Saturday Michel's speech had caused many students to ask to have their names removed from the letter because they were told they would lose their jobs if they signed.

Mississippi Democrats in Revolt

By JAMES BONNEY
JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The men campaigning for governor of Mississippi stand on decorated flat-bed trucks in courthouse squares from Sullivan's Hollow to Piney Ridge and call each other names—"liberals," "Kennedy men" and "Washington pawns."

These are Democrats, striving to win nomination in the party's Aug. 8 primary. The Republicans already have their candidate for the November election, and interest now centers entirely on the "Mississippi Democrats."

"You sure better not label me as a plain Democrat," one candidate warned a newsmen. "I'm a Southern or Mississippi Democrat, and you better spell it right."

Despite 185,000 registered Negroes among the 700,000 voters the candidates are not openly soliciting Negro support. Civil rights organizations are concentrating on county and district races in selected areas.

There are seven gubernatorial candidates wearing the "Mississippi Democrat" label: ex-Gov. Ross R. Barnett, Rep. John Bell Williams, State Treasurer William Winter, Bill Waller, Jimmy Swan, Vernon Brown and C.L. McKinley.

The winner will face Rubel Phillips, a Jackson attorney who won 38 per cent of the vote in 1963 as Republican candidate against Democrat Paul B. Johnson Jr., ineligible by law to succeed himself.

Ross Barnett was governor from 1960 to 1964 and made national news in 1962 when James H. Meredith, a Negro, was enrolled in the University of Mississippi.

Opponents are using the incident against Barnett, 69. John Bell Williams calls Barnett the "secret-deal candidate," claiming he agreed with Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to allow Meredith to enter school if Kennedy would make a show of force from federal officers.

Barnett has denied the charge, but Kennedy on a recent trip to the state said such a deal was made.

Barnett is campaigning on a platform of states rights, support of ex-Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama for president, and increased state welfare benefits for the aged and disabled. He has promised a $75-a-month old age pension, now $50 a month.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel
SHE WANTS A REASON FOR PURITY
Dear Helen: My problem is that I seem to be losing my morals -- in sex only. I went through the drinking bit a few months back and licked it because I got my eyes and ears opened.

When I started dating a year and a half ago, I thought making-out wasn't for me. For a while that worked. I hated for a guy to kiss me. But now I can't stand it when he doesn't. I haven't gone all the way, because I'm dating a wonderful guy who has the morals I seem to be losing.

I don't want to be this way. I used to think that getting married a virgin was the greatest thing in the world, but now I don't know, what with everybody seeming not to care anymore.

To make a long story short, I'm turning into something fused to, and still do, despise—a cheap, fast girl. I need some assurance that if I pull out of this rut I'm in it will be worth the effort. I need a REASON to be moral. Can anyone give me one?

—GONE
Dear Helen: Your letter shows that you already have a reason for high moral values: self-respect. You couldn't like a "cheap, fast girl," especially if she happens to be YOU. . . . And when you hate yourself, expect others to feel likewise.

As for "everybody seeming not to care anymore," don't you believe it! Those who care, consider their beliefs private. Those who don't get interviewed, for the minority has always made the headlines. You can figure "everybody does it" when nobody bothers to write about it. Let's hope that time never comes!—H.

Dear Helen: I read that the Hippies make fudge brownies "trippy" by mixing marijuana with the batter. Would you call these "psychedelicacies?" -- Kathy

Dear Helen: I'd say that's no way to earn a Brownie Button, and forget it!—H.

Dear Helen: My mother is always at rummage sales picking out clothes for me, or getting them from friends and neighbors whose children have outgrown them, or giving me her old ones. The kids laugh at me. Almost all the clothes I get are dull and baggy and I have to wear them. My family isn't that bad off. Dad has a good dren often played. One day a boy clashed two rocks together near the opening of the tank, causing a spark that set off an explosion. For the resulting injury to the boy, the car owner had to pay damages.

2) A Battering Ram—A man parked his automobile on a slope, pulling his brakes only half tight. In his absence the car began rolling downhill, and finally crashed through the plate glass window of a store. Here too the motorist was held responsible.

3) A Bone Crusher—Picking up a neighbor's small son, a motorist slammed the door shut without warning—and without giving the child enough time to get his hand out of the door's way. Result: broken bones, and legal liability imposed on the motorist.

4) A Heart Stopper—Rounding a corner, a man drove straight at a woman pedestrian crossing the street. Although he did manage to stop just in time, the woman fell down in sheer panic, suffering painful injuries. Again, liability for the motorist. As one judge warned, in describing the rights of the pedestrian:

"His right-of-way is not to be measured in fractions of an inch nor tested by split seconds. He is entitled not to just as much space as his body, clothes and buttons require, but to as much as will afford him a safe passage. The pedestrian's heart, as well as his body, should be free from attack."

In short, today's automobile can play many roles in inflicting harm. The car owner bears a responsibility that is not only heavy but diversified as well. It is the law's way of facing up to the less pleasant realities of the automobile age.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Shrapnel" From Tires

Speeding along a gravel road, a motorist drove over a little pile of loose stones. One of the stones squirted sideways, crashed through the windshield of an oncoming car, and injured the other driver.

After litigation, the first motorist was held liable for the mishap. The court said that, in view of his speed and the condition of the road, he should have foreseen the likelihood of hurling "shrapnel" from his tires.

The case illustrates an important principle: a motorist must be alert not only to the general danger of collisions but also to the special dangers that arise from the speed, weight, and make-up of the car.

Here is how legal liability resulted when a car became:

1) A Booby Trap—A man left his old jalopy, with gasoline still in the tank, on a vacant lot where childriven often played. One day a boy clashed two rocks together near the opening of the tank, causing a spark that set off an explosion. For the resulting injury to the boy, the car owner had to pay damages.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Q-How is ECHO virus transmitted? How can one avoid getting a relapse?
A-The ECHO viruses are discharged from the intestines and may be transmitted through contaminated food or water. Once they enter the body they may affect the digestive tract, respiratory tract or the nervous system. Recovery is usually complete but, although the attack confers some immunity against the virus type responsible, a person remains susceptible to other types of ECHO virus.
An attack with a different ECHO virus would not, strictly speaking, be a relapse.
Hydroxybenzyl benzimidazole and quinidine are effective against these viruses. No specific preventive measures have been worked out as yet since the recognition of these viruses is fairly recent.

Q-My doctor says I have had a virus in my blood stream for several years. I have a fever most of the time that may reach 103. How can I get rid of it?
A-Although some viruses may remain inactive in the body for several years before causing an acute illness, I know of no virus that will cause a fever to persist for more than a few weeks without causing death or immunity. What kind of virus does your doctor say you have?

Girls Take Over Ties

The girls will stop at nothing. First they steal the shirt off a man's back, then they take his tie! But the men won't mind at all when they see how groovy the birds look in their new bow shirts-cum-tie. Shirts are big in crepe, oxford cloth with solid ties, Paisley or regimental stripes.

According to the Bible, the land of Goshen was given by Pharaoh to Jacob and his family.

A MONITOR of latest vintage, resembling the famed steel-hulled craft of Civil War days, blasts away with 40-mm shells into an enemy position in the Mekong Delta. Several such craft are being used in Vietnam waterways against enemy forces. The flat-like metal shields on the side are designed to detonate some enemy shells before they make actual contact with the boat's hull.

Fighting Erupts in Pontiac

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Racial violence broke loose in Pontiac with two Negroes shot and killed today, one by a white state legislator who declared "This is the price you have to pay for making a living."

A sniper's shotgun also wounded a policeman as firebombings and looting hit the city of 83,000 only 25 miles northwest of riot-torn Detroit.

State Rep. Arthur J. Law, a Pontiac Democrat, said he fired his 12-gauge shotgun at a half dozen Negro youths after they hurled a trash can through the plate glass window of a food market he has owned since 1948 in a heavily Negro area. Pontiac has 15,000 Negro residents. "I knew I hit one," said Law, 61, a veteran legislator who has campaigned for stiffer penalties against violent crimes. Killed was 17-year-old Alfred Taylor of Pontiac. Two of the youth's companions were injured.

Law said he was protecting his market after it was damaged earlier in a firebombing. Shotgun in hand, he appeared at police headquarters to make a statement on the shooting.

He said the idea of looting spread from Detroit to Pontiac "like a prairie fire." He said Republican Gov. George Romney "should declare the whole state under martial law and give orders to shoot to kill."

"If he had done this, I wouldn't have somebody's life on my hands right now," Law said.

Police Patrolman Santiago Serma, 24, suffered shotgun pellet wounds in his neck when a sniper fired at him in the Negro district. He was in fair condition at a hospital.

About two hours earlier, the body of Bobby Reeves, 25, was tossed out of a white Cadillac convertible at Pontiac General Hospital. He had been shot in the back.

Frost in State as Consultant

By ED SHEARER

Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Clarence E. "Mike" Frost, the newly appointed fulltime consultant to the state Administration Department, says he felt as if he were "somewhat of a celebrity" when he visited the state less than two weeks ago.

Returning from a vacation in Florida, Frost, his wife and their five children checked into a Little Rock motel so that Frost could make a final decision on whether to take the job.

He came here considering the director's job but found out that a residency requirement in the law creating the new department prevented him from being director.

"My oldest girl turned on the television and the first thing she heard was her dad's name," Frost said. "Having been in business, we were not used to it (publicity)."

His arrival with his family came on the day that state Auditor Jimmie "Red" Jones pointed out that the director must be a resident elector of the state. Frost, a native of Chicago, has never lived in Arkansas.

Frost came back to the state Monday to assume his duties as consultant. He said he would remain here one week, be in Detroit next week to wind up some personal affairs and return to the job for good on Aug. 7.

Frost says he looks upon the job as "extremely challenging" and "much more seriously than something I'd like to try for awhile."

"I believe it will enable me to pull together many of the experiences I've had in the past in a single responsibility," Frost said. "I'm certainly looking forward to it."

He said the experience he could draw on was a considerable amount in accounting, budgeting and data processing and a thorough, though lesser amount, in auditing and personnel.

His background has covered the entire realm of administration over the past 15 years, Frost says, and his three years as assistant comptroller in a Detroit bank has given him a broader perspective.

Asked about any apprehension over taking the job, Frost said, "You are always a little concerned about something you are not familiar with. A part of it is selling your ideas to someone else. I kind of look on this as an opportunity to sell ideas." Prior to accepting his position with the bank, Frost worked for eight years with Peat, Marwick and Mitchell, a nationwide accounting firm.

While employed with the accounting company, Frost served as a consultant in two government jobs. He helped institute an integrated accounting system at the Army Ordnance Missile Command in Huntsville, Ala., and helped reorganize the accounting procedures of the municipal retirement fund in Chicago.

Frost says he looks upon his job as one in which he will be working with Jilian Hogan in helping to organize the new department, possibly the major point in Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's "era of excellence."

The department is a new one that has consolidated the purchasing department and comptroller's office. It also includes an administrative services and personnel department.

Hogan will become the director of the department, probably on Aug. 1, replacing G. Thomas Eisele, who took charge temporarily when the department came into being July 1. Eisele

50 Hurt in Africa Mine Accidents

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Fifty African miners were killed today and 49 injured in a pileup at the head of a gold mine shaft, the Anglo-American Corporation announced.

None of the injured were believed in critical condition, the company said.

The accident happened when workers reporting for their shift apparently surged forward in a subway and crushed miners in front of them against a turnstile controlling access to elevator cages. The subway runs from a hostel to a mine shaft.

The mine is in Carltonville, about 35 miles southwest of Johannesburg. It is part of the important West Witwatersrand gold fields.

Reagan and Nixon Deny Any 'Deal'

By BILL BOYARSKY
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon say they made no deals at "the summit of Bohemia" but agreed the Republican party must nominate a candidate who can beat President Johnson next year.

That was the word from Reagan's advisers Sunday after California's governor returned to Sacramento from a weekend meeting with Nixon at the Bohemian Grove, an exclusive retreat for businessmen on the Russian River north of San Francisco.

It was the first meeting of the two since Reagan's stock as a potential candidate began rising. Nixon jokingly referred to the weekend as "the summit of Bohemia."

A spokesman for the governor said Reagan and Nixon breakfasted with Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., "had a brief talk," but "nobody proposed any deals."

The former vice president is an undeclared candidate for the nomination. But some of his conservative support appears to be in danger of slipping away to Reagan who last year defeated Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown by almost a million votes. Nixon lost to Brown in 1962.

Reagan publicly insists he is not a serious candidate for the nomination and will limit himself to being California's favorite son at the convention. But his name is likely to be on the open presidential primary ballot in Oregon, Wisconsin and Nebraska next year.

Some of his advisers are convinced Nixon will falter before the GOP convention and Reagan will pick up his delegates.

anything that moves." Guard Lt. Richard Starr, 30, Grand Rapids, led the attack on a rundown hotel, lifting the siege on the 5th Precinct.

"They found nothing," he said. "There was someone up there, but they got away."

The first wave of paratroopers was deployed on the East Side.

Associated Press newsmen touring the area reported devastation equal or surpassing that on the near West Side and Northwest Side where whole sections of blocks, 10 to 15 at a time in some areas, were torched by looters and arsonists Sunday and Monday and burned or smoldered into today.

Firemen harassed by snipers — at least one was killed by gunfire — and short-handed as the blazes continued to spread, were forced to let some of the smaller fires burn unchecked.

Arrests stood at 2,000 with 300 booked already and hundreds more in custody. Bond was set at $200,000 for two accused snipers at a pre-dawn arraignment.

"Pillage, looting, murder and arson have nothing to do with civil rights," President Johnson told a national television audience when he announced the order to move in federal troops Monday night.

Earlier in the day he had dispatched a brigade of the 101st Airborne, the famed "Screaming Eagle" Division of World War II, from Ft. Campbell, Ky., and a brigade of the 82nd Airborne from Ft. Bragg, N.C., to Selfridge Air Force Base northeast of the city.

The President said he acted in answer to a plea from Gov. George Romney and Mayor Jerome Cavanagh who said the situation was out of hand.

Johnson also sent Cyrus Vance, special assistant to Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, to Selfridge to assess the situation.

The final order to move out the GIs came on Vance's recommendation. Johnson federalized the Michigan National Guard at the same time.

Mayor Cavanagh, shortly before Johnson's order for the troops to move, said the city "looked like Berlin in 1945 or Warsaw after the ghetto uprising. This is an explosion of the completely lawless element."

By today most officials were making the same comment — that the riots lacked organization and there was no apparent evidence that skilled agitators were present.

Looting that continued was shared by whites and Negroes alike and carried on good naturedly.

"Detroit's second day of violence was aimed not so much at skin color as color television sets," wrote Austin Scott, an Associated Press newsmen who has covered every major riot in the past three years.

"In no other riot-sacked city has there been such wholesale cooperation between Negroes and whites queuing up like happy locusts for a running grab at life's luxuries," said Scott.

Detroit has no ghettos such as those found in cities like Newark, Los Angeles, or New York's Harlem, scenes of some of the worst racial rioting. Of the city's 1.7 million people, 30 per cent are Negro.

Although many areas are predominantly Negro, they are sprinkled with white families who have lived in harmony with Negroes and for the most part still do.

With these factors, plus high employment, due to the auto industry, the hopscotch character of erupting violence that has covered an area nearly one-fourth the size of the city makes Detroit's current upheaval unique.

Shiny Cadillacs, some 1967 models, driven by both Negroes and whites, lined up along devastated Grand River Avenue on the near West Side Monday to be loaded with everything from stuffed pandas to dining room tables.

National Guardsmen stood by without halting the pillage of burned out stores, under orders not to interfere lest new incidents erupt.

Hardly any of the city was immune from some sort of vandalism which stretched from the smart New York shops downtown, where some windows were broken, 10 miles to beyond the city limits.

The downtown area was deserted Monday as banks, many stores, schools, businesses and universities closed. Deliveries also were halted. By Monday night hotels and restaurants were running out of food.

Bars, liquor stores, movie houses and all places of entertainment were ordered closed by the mayor and governor. A 9 p.m. to 5:30 a.m. curfew cleared the streets at night.

Traffic to Canada Is Screened

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — U.S. and Canadian border officials today cautiously lifted a ban on traffic between Windsor and Detroit, but commuters and tourists crossing the Ambassador Bridge to the United States were being carefully screened.

Canadians working in Detroit were required to show evidence of their place of work. Tourists were closely questioned about their destination as officials sought to keep curiosity seekers out of Detroit. Legitimate travelers, however, were allowed to pass through.

Tourists who attempted to cross at Detroit Monday were diverted to Sarnia. Bridge traffic on the Blue Water International Bridge between Port Huron and Sarnia has tripled since last week.

standstill. The auto industry closed its Detroit plants after thousands of workers failed to report for their jobs.

Besides the killing of one Negro and the critical wounding of another in a separate incident, police at Pontiac, a city of 82,000 about 25 miles north of Detroit, reported some firebombing and window breaking in a small area. There were at least 15 arrests.

Roving bands of Negroes injured 13 people at Grand Rapids, a city of 202,000 which is 150 miles northwest of Detroit. Negroes threw rocks and other missiles and police said officers were fired on twice.

At Flint, 60 miles north, gangs of Negroes roamed the streets and police broke up gatherings on street corners.

Detroit's riots are the worst outbreak since 1943 when more than 30 were killed and hundreds injured in a racial explosion touched off by the rumor that whites had thrown a Negro woman from a bridge.

Firebombing broke out last summer on the East Side and lasted four days.

Today's front page is a chronicle of tragedy—one more illustration of the ancient truth that when agitators strike at law and order they hurt innocent thousands yet achieve nothing for themselves.

Federal troops will handle the situation in Detroit, and of course the city will eventually recover—but as the Associated Press stories on this page tell you, thousands of little people caught in the middle of this domestic war have lost their property and life's savings.

In many cases their insurance had been cancelled because of the companies' disastrous experience with previous civil commotion, and so final disaster puts them out of business, and perhaps out of a house to live in.

Agitators may feel their cause is valid enough to risk civil commotion and death, but in the long run society recognizes no obligation greater than that of the state to maintain law and order—the obligation to make the streets safe for innocent citizens, the obligation to protect property, to put out fires and maintain the community as an insurable risk.

This obligation has not been met, either by the mayor of Detroit or Michigan's Governor Romney. The spectacle of the world's motor capital being laid in ruins has tarnished the image of the mayor and particularly the governor. Both stand convicted of sending peace officers into battle to be shot at with instructions not to shoot back. And yet the preservation of the whole fabric of law and order absolutely depended on the rioters knowing in advance that the officers would shoot unless they gave way.

It speaks volumes for the high level of Hope Scouting that our town placed two among the five from Caddo Council Eagle Scouts who will attend the World Jamboree in Idaho.

Yesterday's picture headlined Clay Lehman, but the caption included John Spraggins, also of Hope. Pictures, captions, and newswriters take different channels in the process of putting together a newspaper—and oversights happen. Their home town has occasion to congratulate two Eagle Scouts on outstanding recognition.

Ever since your editor reported that his purple martins had "gone South" the telephone has been reminding him that lots of folks still have their martins around.

But of course, Departure dates are individual with each box—depending on when the old folks have completed teaching the youngsters how to fly and how to navigate. As I explained in an earlier column, as soon as the young martins are air-borne the adults take off on a navigation cruise to Missouri and Tennessee, then return for a last look at the home box—and start for the Gulf Coast, Mexico, and South America.

Mine are gone—and any day now yours will be gone, too.

Allocation Made for Ozarks Plan

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Economic Development Program in Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's office was allocated $43,917 Monday for development of a state plan for public investment under contract with the Ozarks Regional Development agency.

The money is for salaries of those hired to inventory investments available in the state and identify problems.

The allocation was among $164,538 allocated by the governor of which most was federal funds available to him in a contingency fund.

The state Office of Economic Opportunity received $20,000 in state funds as the state's share of the $147,000 Arkansas Young Citizens Camp for underprivileged youths.

The state Pollution Control Commission received $5,054, the Arkansas Law Enforcement Training Academy $33,251, the Arkansas Children's Colony $54,316, the Arkansas Educational Television Commission $5,900 and the second allocation of $2,100.

'Use Force as Required,' Is Army Order

3,000 More Troops on City's Edge

By FRANK JOSEPH
DETROIT (AP)—Ordered into action by President Johnson, Army paratroopers clamped an armored lid on Detroit today and calm returned—at least for the moment—after 48 hours of killing, pillaging and burning.

Some new fires broke out. Sporadic sniper fire spattered against walls and sidewalks. But the presence of the paratroopers—40 per cent of them combat tested in Vietnam—appeared to have brought a lull in the wild Negro rioting that laid waste huge sections of the city, and claimed 23 lives.

Cyrus Vance, special assistant in the Defense Department and Johnson's deputy at the scene, urged businesses and industries to reopen.

He asked citizens to come back to jobs, but the plea went largely unheeded. The center city was virtually a ghost town.

Gov. George Romney, appearing with Vance and Mayor Jerome Cavanagh at a news conference, said however that a curfew and an order closing all gasoline stations, liquor stores, bars and places of entertainment would remain in force indefinitely.

"Due to an apparent improvement in the over-all situation, Gov. Romney, Mayor Cavanagh and I are requesting businesses, retail stores and industries to resume normal operations with all citizens using caution and good judgment," Vance said.

Despite the invitation, the nation's fifth-largest city remained a virtual ghost town, its main arteries all but sealed by dwindling sniper fire and destruction that has soared into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

Most deliveries into the city failed to resume. Restaurants and hotels that remained open were running short of food. The auto industry, which shut all its plants Monday, reopened some of them today. But absenteeism kept assembly lines at a crawl.

Expressways that criss-cross the city were nearly deserted. Those abroad in cars gawked at the vast destruction. Out-of-state licensees were numerous.

In heavily damaged areas Negroes and whites alike served coffee to weary troops. Small knots of people gathered on street corners.

Reports of injuries continued to mount toward 1,000, but apparently there was no way to get an accurate count.

Hundreds—possibly thousands—had become refugees burned from homes or jobs.

A committee set up by Cavanagh to handle refugees said many were living in their cars.

Decision Due on County Judge Vote

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Circuit Judge Tom Digby announced Monday that he would issue a ruling either today or Wednesday on a suit challenging the legality of a special election called to elect a Pulaski County judge.

The suit, filed Friday by Guy H. Story of Little Rock, contends that the election called by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller would violate provisions of the state Constitution fixing the terms of elected county officials at two years and setting the dates for the biennial elections to fill county offices.

County Judge Arch Campbell, who did not seek re-election in the last general election, has continued in office since Judge-elect Tom Gully drowned.

An intervention was filed in the case Monday by Gene G. McCoy of Little Rock.

G. & F. Man Joins EDP Program

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Harold Alexander said Monday that he would resign from the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission to take a position as a research assistant in the state Economic Development Program.

Alexander said he would assume his new job Aug. 21. He had worked for the Game and Fish Commission for 17 years.

The EDP is a liaison agency between the governor and various agencies in Arkansas concerned with water resources and some of the broader aspects of economic development.

Latin Harlem Riots Spill Into Bronx

By JOHN VINOCUR
NEW YORK (AP)—Rioting Puerto Ricans, dodging their own rooftop snipers and police bullets, charged again early today through the slum streets of Spanish Harlem, setting fires with tossed cans of stolen oil and looting neighbors' tiny shops and grocery stores. Two persons died in the violence.

For the first time since they began early Sunday, the disorders jumped the Harlem River from Manhattan and spread to a largely Puerto Rican section of the Bronx. Looting broke out and a youth was shot in the arm.

More than 1,000 policemen in helmets and steel vests chased roving bands of 2,000 youths through a 125-square block area of Manhattan, taking cover to empty their revolvers at snipers hidden in tenement windows, then thrashing rioters with their nightsticks.

It was full-scale rioting and the worst of three straight nights of lesser disturbances in El Barrio—the neighborhood, in Spanish—cramped, steamy home to a large segment of the city's 850,000 Puerto Ricans.

It took a heavy rain at 3 a.m. to do what police found so difficult—get the unruly mobs off the streets and indoors.

A 44-year-old Puerto Rican woman, hit by what officers said was a .22-caliber bullet, died shortly after a young Puerto Rican man was found fatally injured with a broken neck. Dozens were injured, including five policemen.

The rioting again stopped short of the unmarked frontiers that separate Spanish or East Harlem from the luxury apartments of the upper East Side and the squalor of central Harlem's Negro masses.

Gleaming paths of shattered glass showed the progress of the riot as it spread from 95th Street to 121st Street along Third Avenue, bulging in some spots to Second and First avenues on the east and Lexington, Park and Madison avenues on the west.

Fire flashed from trash cans on almost every corner, burst from flying gasoline-filled bottles and consumed an ABC television mobile unit. From a gas station, rioters took cans of oil and de-icer and turned them into flaming missiles.

Firemen answering calls throughout the area stretched out their hoses while skipping away from bottles and rocks thrown from roofs and windows.

Horsemen Freed on Drunk Charge

EUREKA, Calif. (AP)—Two rodeo enthusiasts were freed after being charged with being drunk on horseback on a public highway.

Jack Leroy Erwin, 69, of Hydesville, Calif., pleaded guilty Monday and was fined $56. Gilbert Dias, 44, of Petrolia, Calif., posted $29 bail.

The California Highway Patrol said the two had attended a rodeo in Fortuna Sunday night and had started back for Hydesville, 9 miles away, on Erwin's horse and mule.

Life's Savings Wiped Out for Those Caught in Middle of Rioting

By STANLEY JOHNSON
NEW YORK (AP)—With no end in sight to the nation's summer of racial violence, weary victims of rioting in cities across the country are adding up their economic losses and planning for the future.

With preliminary damage estimates in Detroit already over $150 million, official estimates of monetary losses around the nation totaled over $169,853,000 in an Associated Press survey.

Some victims, in despair, plan to get out of trouble spots as soon as possible; others are starting work on new plans to minimize the chance of future outbreaks; still others, stunned, just don't know what to do.

Tampa, Fla., merchants joined a biracial commission in a training program to open employment to Negroes as a peace move.

A Buffalo, N.Y., banker summed up:

"Many of the merchants would love to leave the area, but they have no place to go."

Of the $169 million, $15 million was in Newark, N.J., $3 million in Cincinnati, Ohio, $1 million in Tampa, Fla., $350,000 in Dayton, Ohio, $250,000 in Buffalo, N.Y., $150,000 in Erie, Pa., and $100,000 in Cairo, Ill. The Department of Housing and Urban Development said in Washington that no federal funds are available to help repair or rebuild.

But no monetary value could be placed on the human tragedies, the loss of the family home, the work of a lifetime, perhaps, lost in one riotous night.

"We have been getting telephone calls, some of them from small homeowners actually crying on the phone," said Morris Spielberg, an organizer of the Newark Businessmen's Emergency Committee. "What will we do? Where will we get the money to start again?" they ask.

He said many of the businesses hit were family concerns, some of which had no insurance or were dropped by insurance companies in recent years.

"We put a $15 million insured damage estimate on the Newark rioting last Friday (July 21)," said a spokesman for the Insurance Information Institute in New York. "Whatever is insured will be paid."

He said most of the claims will come under a homeowner's policy or fire and extended coverage policies that include such risks as riots, explosions, fires and civil commotions.

The spokesman said it would take years to determine whether the riots would lead to an increase in insurance rates.

Looting in Stricken City Presents Worst Picture of the Mob

Fire Rages as Gunfire Halts Rescue

EDITOR'S NOTE—The riots in Detroit have not followed the same pattern of development set in Harlem in 1964 and followed closely ever since. Reporter Austin Scott, who has been on the scene for nine of these civil uprisings explores the different turn taken by Detroit.

By AUSTIN SCOTT
DETROIT (AP)—The large sign chalked on a white scrawl across the charred doorway read "Black Power," but Detroit's second day of violence was aimed not so much at skin color as at color television sets.

In no other riot-sacked city has there been such wholesale cooperation between Negroes and whites queuing up like happy locusts for a running grab at life's luxuries.

Shiny Cadillacs, some 1967 models, some driven by Negroes and some by whites, lined up along Grand River Avenue Monday morning to be stowed with everything from stuffed pandas to dining room tables.

A red-haired white man directed operations as dozens of Negroes disappeared into the murky depths of a furniture store basement, emerging with two portable television sets clutched in each hand.

Late Sunday night a happy mob of Negroes and whites busily looting a furniture store politely asked permission from a white homeowner across the street before dragging their stolen plunder through his yard.

White reporters risked beatings to enter Tampa's Central Park Housing Project, but they walked Detroit's streets all day, even without their customary hard helmets, and ran into only mild derision.

Newsmen who met only hostile stares in Chicago or violence in Watts, found Detroit residents eager to talk about their own problems with the violence.

Unlike Cleveland or San Francisco, or even Harlem in 1964, almost as many people over 25 as under saw "a piece of the action." Matrons in their fifties leaped nimbly over show windows to grab a lamp, an end table or a lightweight chair, then scurried down the street with faces as impish as those produced by successful girlish pranks.

Negro leaders were puzzled by the lack of demands upon the city that usually come quickly after the first outbreak of violence.

The leaders approved a statement blaming the violence on a small number of hoodlums and hatemongers.

The personnel carrier only went as far as a group of National Guardsmen and police who were crouching behind several Jeeps near Linwood and Philadelphia avenues. They were pointing their weapons at a second-floor window across the street.

Somebody fired at them, or so it seemed. They crouched behind the Jeeps and began firing.

Here's Review of Racial Situation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON—President Johnson ordered federal troops into Detroit, saying that "riots, looting and public disorder will not be tolerated."

DETROIT—Chaotic rioting over two days has caused 23 deaths and brought property damage in excess of $150 million.

NEW YORK—Spanish Harlem's Puerto Rican population staged a full-scale riot, burning, looting, shooting with police. Two died in the outbreak.

CAMBRIDGE, Md.—About 1,000 Negroes roamed the street and two blocks went up in flames. H. Rapp Brown, of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee was slightly wounded and charged with inciting to riot.

ROCHESTER, N.Y.—Two died in violence that marked the third anniversary of rioting that took four lives in 1964.

PONTIAC, Mich.—The city 25 miles north of Detroit rocked with fire-bombing and looting. Two were killed.

Other disturbances were reported in Toledo, Ohio; Grand Rapids, and Flint, Mich.; Houston, Tex.; Englewood, N.J., and Tucson, Ariz.

Throckmorton said his men have orders to use "minimum force necessary to complete their mission."

President Johnson ordered paratroopers to the Detroit area Monday to join some 7,000 police and National Guardsmen dueling for control of the streets with rooftop and doorway snipers.

Camped at an air base minutes from the city were 3,000 more of the troops who were rushed from Kentucky and North Carolina earlier in the day.

As the first waves rolled through streets bathed in the glow of fresh fires set by looters and arsonists, reports came of racial unrest in other Michigan cities.

At nearby Pontiac, two Negroes were shot to death and a sniper's shotgun wounded a policeman.

Three major fires were set in Detroit during the night. Fire Chief Charles Quinlan said they were the biggest of the more than 800 set since Sunday that have sent property damage soaring into the hundreds of millions.

As the second night of violence ended, however, the character of rioting appeared to have changed. Arson and looting, set off by Negroes early Sunday and later joined by whites, dropped sharply.

Sniper fire increased, with most of it concentrated on police and guardsmen.

Automatic rifle fire that cracked in the streets off and on during the night, ended before dawn as heavy sieges were lifted at three police precincts.

Guardsmen used a tank and two big trucks to smash a siege by snipers at the East Side 5th Precinct near where a fireman was shot down while battling a blaze and less than a mile from exclusive, all-white Grosse Pointe.

The battle there and an earlier two-hour firefight several blocks away in which two guardsmen were wounded dramatized a sudden shift in rioting to miles from where it erupted Sunday with a police raid on a Negro night club.

Associated Press photographer Eddie Adams, a veteran of front line photography in Vietnam, saw the two guardsmen gunned down in the East Side firefight at an intersection.

"We were pinned down," he said. "Then the guardsmen pulled out, so I got out of there. Their radio told them: 'Shoot

Army paratroopers, moving on orders from President Johnson, deployed through riot-torn Detroit today and forcibly returned civil order to that city, wracked by three nights of violence. Police in at least 12 other cities also put down overnight racial strife.

In Detroit, more than 48 hours of burning, looting and killing left 23 dead and the city paralyzed.

Cyrus Vance, special assistant in the Defense Department and Johnson's special deputy on the scene, urged Detroit business and industry to reopen and asked citizens to return to their jobs. The auto industry, which shut down all its Detroit plants Monday, reopened most of them today.

But food deliveries were not resumed and hotels and restaurants were running low on supplies. As on Monday, the city had the appearance of a ghost town with many people remaining home.

Michigan officials said a curfew and orders for the closing of all gas stations, liquor stores and night clubs would remain in force indefinitely.

Calm began to return to the city at dawn as the airborne troops relieved weary National Guardsmen who had been on the scene almost since the rioting broke out.

The toll of injured moved toward 1,000 and property damage soared into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

Speaking to the nation over radio and television Monday night, the President said he had acted only because of "indisputable evidence" that Gov. George Romney and local officials could not control the situation.

In New York City rioting spread beyond the gray slums of Spanish Harlem to the predominantly Puerto Rican South Bronx. Streets echoed to the sound of sniper fire for the first time in the three-day disturbance.

Two persons died in the New York violence as more than 1,000 policemen in helmets and steel vests chased some 2,000 youths through a 125-square block area of Manhattan.

A 3 a.m. downpour finally forced the rioters off the streets and gave firemen the chance to mop up numerous blazes set by the roving bands.

President Johnson called on "all of our people, in all of our cities, to join in a determined program to maintain law and order," and to show "that riots, looting and public disorder will not be tolerated."

Johnson's order and his appeal to a nationwide television audience came hours after Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield put administration weight behind a Senate Republican move to probe rioting in U. S. cities.

But Mansfield struck back at Republican Policy Coordinating Committee charges that the United States is "rapidly approaching a state of anarchy" and that Johnson is failing to recognize and deal with racial violence.

The GOP committee, which includes congressional leaders, governors and former presidential candidates, suggested violence and destruction in Detroit may be the outgrowth of "organized planning and execution on a national scale."

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was among members who voted unanimously for the statement, it demanded a congressional investigation of means to end civil disorders.

There was speculation about the possible political effects of Romney's request for federal troops—and it seemed likely to burgeon in the wake of the President's television statement.

Two Negroes were fatally shot and a policeman wounded today as fire-bombing and looting Negro youths rampaged through Pontiac, a city of 82,000 only 25 miles northwest of Detroit.
